You and your classmates have accomplished a lot through ClassroomsCare. Children who might never have had their very own book before now know what the experience is like. How do you think these children feel? Imagine what it's like to "walk in someone else's shoes" and write about it.

I didn't expect today to be any different from every other day. But I was wrong. Today I helped to give an amazing gift, and I got an amazing gift...